

Association of Gaming Equipment Manufacturers (AGEM) Donates $25,000 for Scholarships

(Atlantic City, NJ – July 21, 2009) — The Association of Gaming Equipment Manufacturers (AGEM) donated $25,000 to the Casino Career Institute at Atlantic Cape Community College on Tuesday, July 21 at the Worthington Atlantic City Campus. The donation will offer $1,000 tuition assistance scholarships for students in its slot technology training program. Approximately 25 potential trainees will be awarded AGEM scholarships over the next two years.

“Atlantic Cape Community College continues to meet the needs of its more than 7,000 students through the generous support of organizations like the Association of Gaming Equipment Manufacturers,” said Dr. Peter Mora, ACCC president. “The AGEM scholarships will cover a significant portion of tuition and make a difference in the lives of our slot technology students.”

To apply for the scholarships, students must demonstrate financial need and complete an application through ACCC. For more information, visit www.atlantic.edu or call (609) 343-4848.

Atlantic Cape Community College President Dr. Peter Mora, Association of Gaming Equipment Manufacturers (AGEM) representative Mac Seelig, President of AC Coin & Slot and Director of the Casino Career Institute (CCI), Carol Drea show off a check donated by AGEM for $25,000 for slot technology scholarships at Atlantic City Community College.